```
B_0
import pandas as pd
                                                                                                                        data['B']_0
                                                                          pandas
                                                                                               read csv 0
                                                                                            code: pd.read_csv(path)
path = "..."
                                                                                                                                                         fillna 1
                                                                             pd
                                                                                                                         mean 2
                                                                                                                                               code: data['B'].fillna(data.mean().mean())
data = pd.read_csv(path)
                                                                                                 data 0
                                                                                                                      code: data.mean()
data.head()
                                                                           path
                                                                                                                                                         mean 3
                                                                                                                      mean 0
                                                                                                data['A']_0
                                                                                                                                                    code: data.mean().mean()
                                                                       head 0
                                                                                                                   code: data.mean()
 2 56 99 51 73 43 0 82 31 60 81
                                                                    code: data.head()
A = data['A'].fillna(data.mean().mean())
                                                                                                 fillna 0
                                                                                                                                           mean 1
B = data['B'].fillna(data.mean().mean())
                                                                                       code: data['A'].fillna(data.mean().mean())
                                                                                                                                       code: data.mean().mean()
A.value_counts()
                                                                       value counts 0
                                                                                                  A_0
                                                                      code: A.value_counts()
Name: A, dtype: int64
```